

I should have done this long ago!

Mary Clark

Dr. Samuel F. Jirik has happy patients because they can eat a steak and corn on the cob, speak in public with a relaxed tone, and experience the confidence of a natural smile. After years of struggling with missing teeth or inadequate dentures, patients like Mary Clark can once again enjoy the simple pleasures in life with a new dental technique.

"I should have done this long ago"! exclaims Mary Clark. "I researched this new procedure prior to choosing Dr. Jirik, and he is absolutely at the top of his field. I had been concerned about my teeth for years. I could not eat or chew, I did not dare smile and I was never without pain. I finally began exploring my options and found Dr. Jirik's website. There was so much information that I became very well informed and even read about people like me. I decided to make an appointment for a consultation. The office was comfortable and the staff was all so friendly and competent. Dr. Jirik gave me several options and I decided right then I wanted to do treatment. I chose a more expensive option of implants with crowns. My teeth are just like my own, except they are not yellow and crooked. My smile looks completely natural."

Mary is referring to Computer Guided Implant Placement or CGIP, which is a revolutionary procedure that offers benefits previously thought impossible for those missing teeth or struggling with a denture. It is the most impressive technological breakthrough in dentistry today.

"The response to this technique had been overwhelming", explains Dr. Jirik. "The advantages of CGIP for the implant patient cannot be measured in comfort, safety, convenience or dollars - they are priceless." Multiple steps that were required in the past are now completed in the dental laboratory prior to the treatment appointment. CGIP utilizes a CT scan of the patient's mouth and innovative computer programs. The CT scan allows Dr. Jirik to evaluate available bone and tooth structure then begin virtual surgical planning and reconstruction of a patient's teeth prior to surgery.

"Patients who are medically compromised and unable to tolerate multiple long procedures have a quick, safe, minimally invasive solution with CGIP," says Dr. Jirik "If inadequate bone has made someone less than an ideal candidate for dental restoration in the past, CGIP reveals the bone loss and allows the safe placement of implants".

During the surgical appointment, Dr. Jirik places the dental implants and restorations utilizing computer generated surgical guides.

"I never dreamed when I entered this profession that I would be doing more dentistry in the lab and on a computer than in the patient's mouth, but that is exactly what is happening," he says. CGIP allows the luxury of implant placement in familiar surroundings with a dedicated and highly trained staff. There is little disruption to a busy schedule because CGIP is simply one surgery, lasting only one hour. Unlike previous procedures that took three months to one year with multiple surgeries, CGIP surgery requires no incision, which significantly lessens the discomfort after the procedure. Patients can enjoy the immediate use of their dental implants and return to work and a normal routine shortly after treatment. They walk out of the clinic with a new smile that day - not months later.

"Dr. Jirik is a warm and caring man and his whole team was available for me and my husband every step of the way", says Mary. "I am able to eat a large variety of foods and I feel ten years younger. Everyone owes it to themselves to see what Dr. Jirik can do for them. I would not hesitate to do the treatment all over again. It was well worth the time and investment for such an excellent result."
